Andy Cooney Carnegie Hall Benefit Concert for Hope House Ministries!

New York (December 1, 2019)

While the opioid epidemic claiming more and more lives, Hope House Ministries in Port Jefferson, New York continues its 39 year mission to reach those living with addiction and hopelessness. Eleven programs address addiction, homelessness, juvenile delinquency, high school drop outs, teen pregnancy, evictions, domestic violence and sexual abuse. Hope House Ministries, with limited sources, continues to offer help where it is most needed.

On Monday, December 9, 2020 at 8:00 p.m., New York's own Andy Cooney joins musical forces with The New York Tenors, Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers, the Hibernian Festival Singers and the HIMS. The evening will feature inspiring Christmas classics, both old and new, with performances audiences won't want to miss this holiday season.

The HIMS, Hope Inspired Men Sing, return to Carnegie Hall this season featuring Hope House Ministries' own piece ensemble. Music as a pathway to recovery is music divinely inspired. The young men who make up The HIMS will leave you filled with hope.

About Hope House Ministries:

Now in its 39th year, Hope House Ministries began as a 10-bed facility providing compassionate crisis intervention for young men aged 16 to 21 and has expanded to a multi-faceted agency encompassing housing, educational and counseling assistance for individuals and families in crisis reaching nearly two thousand men, women, children, seniors and veterans each month. Today Hope House offers services to those in need through eleven outreach programs that focus on restoring hope to the lives of those less fortunate, while all services remain free of charge.

Local courts, juvenile programs, law enforcement, health care facilities, families, schools, businesses and the hundreds of thousands of people this agency has served over the past 39 years attest to the many ways in which the community has come to rely on the competent and compassionate care provided by Hope House Ministries to those in need on Long Island.
